

Does it sound funny to say a 30 day suspension is minor discipline?

If it sounds suspicious, that's because it is.

But that's exactly what the know-nothing politicians in Trenton are trying to write into law. And that means workers would have no legal access to a Civil Service appeal on any suspension less severe than 30 days.

The bills are S2135 in the Senate, and A2955 in the Assembly, and hearings on the bills start on Thursday, August 12.

Think this can't affect you? How soon do you think managers who don't like someone will send them home for a month without pay once they get that power? Do you really want to find out?

CALL YOUR LEGISLATORS

on Wednesday, August 11 and tell them:

My name is [SAY YOUR NAME] and I live in [SAY THE NAME OF THE TOWN YOU LIVE IN]. I am urging you to oppose S2135 and A2955, which would allow managers to suspend public workers for 30 days without a legal right to appeal. I expect you to work with my union to make New Jersey better, not eliminate my due process rights and open up the door to discrimination and abuse by managers and political appointees.
